City job fairs will be held next week

Job fairs are being held in all five boroughs on Thursday and June 13 through a partnership between Gov. Andrew Cuomo and 188 employers in the city.

"Creating jobs for New Yorkers remains our top priority, and these job fairs are a great platform for us to connect job seekers with employers in the New York City area," said Cuomo.

The career fairs will offer more than 5,000 jobs to local residents. Attendees will also be able to find out about employment workshops.

Yeshiva students kicked off plane

About 100 Brooklyn yeshiva students are accusing AirTran of religious bias after they were booted off a plane at LaGuardia Airport.

Flight attendants and eventually the captain reportedly lost patience with the students for ignoring repeated requests to sit down and turn off their cell phones.

The flight to Atlanta was delayed for 45 minutes as the students were asked to exit the plane and placed on other flights.

Victims of Sandy still struggling

Suffering. Health officials say emotional recovery from the trauma of the storm can take years.

Seven months after Hurricane Sandy destroyed the first floor of her Hamilton Beach home, Jean Ferrara-Rodriguez is still rebuilding her life.

The downstairs plumbing needs work, mold in the hallway has to be retreated and she's still waiting for some FEMA checks.

"You worry about one thing and another comes up," said Ferrara-Rodriguez.

Ferrara-Rodriguez, 51, is not alone. The health department said nearly one-third of adults living in the areas hardest-hit by Sandy reported experiencing psychological distress six weeks after the storm.

"When property is destroyed or lost and you cannot get back to your normal environment, it takes much longer to recover from trauma because people have to adjust," said Paula Madrid, a psychologist with the National Center for Disaster Preparedness at Columbia University.

The city health department is urging storm victims to call a helpline in a summer campaign advertising free crisis counseling services through Project Hope, a state initiative funded by FEMA.

Ferrara-Rodriguez has been attending Project Hope group sessions at the Howard Beach Senior Center since April. She draws comfort from meetings with other storm victims.

"You got to be in it to really know what it's like," she said.

Children are especially vulnerable to these symptoms, Madrid said.

"There are a lot of children who are fearful about the summer — these children haven't had any of these fears before Sandy," Madrid said, noting the increase in storms during hotter months.

Though Ferrara-Rodriguez's daughter Jean Marie, 13, doesn't appear to be afraid of future hurricanes, she was stranded with her mother for several hours at a flooded motel when the storm hit last October.

Such traumatic experiences have a greater impact on children and the stress can manifest in different ways, Madrid said.

But recovery — for both adults and children — after a disaster like Sandy can take years.

"Recovery only begins when people feel they are safe," she said.

Help

Health officials hope Sandy victims in emotional turmoil will take advantage of Project Hope's services.

- Since November, hundreds of counselors with Project Hope have already helped 108,000 New Yorkers, going door-to-door in storm-ravaged neighborhoods.

- Counselors advise victims individually or in group sessions on how to deal with any anxiety they might feel and, if necessary, give them referrals for professional help.

Poll: Sheldon Silver should step down

Poll. A survey found New Yorkers are disappointed in how the Assembly Speaker dealt with Vito Lopez.

Half of New York voters want Assembly Speaker Sheldon Silver to resign because of the way he handled sexual harassment allegations against former Assemblyman Vito Lopez, according to a new Quinnipiac University poll.

"A lot of voters say get rid of the pack of them; there should be a legislative house-cleaning," said Quinnipiac University Polling Institute director Maurice Carroll.

An ethics report last month stated that Lopez harassed at least eight female staffers after Silver approved a $100,000 settlement with two women who accused Lopez of sexual harassment. The report revealed that Silver's office failed to refer the allegations to an ethics committee.

The poll also found that 58 percent of New York State voters would not want their daughter

A Mercedes-driving, horse-riding suburban mother has been arrested on charges of running a sophisticated marijuana business out of a warehouse, U.S. authorities said.

Andrea Sanderlin, 45, of the tony bedroom community of Scarsdale, N.Y., was accused of conspiring to grow and distribute more than 1,000 marijuana plants from a Queens warehouse, according to a criminal complaint released late Tuesday.

U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration agents trailed her for a week as she commuted from her suburban home to the warehouse in her Mercedes SUV, before arresting her on May 20, according to court papers.

The warehouse, operating under the business name Fantastic Enterprises, had "state-of-the-art lighting, irrigation and ventilation systems," the Police said they believed the suspects had simply removed the bikes by forcefully yanking them from the docking station.

There will be no G service for various weekends from July to December.

MTA officials announced a series of shutdown plans for the R and G trains to repair damage caused by Hurricane Sandy last year, and riders are not happy.

"We understand that the MTA has to do what's necessary to rebuild from Sandy, we know it will be painful, and we support the MTA decision doing this much-needed construction," John Raskin, executive director for the Riders Alliance, said in a statement.

"But shutting down a whole train line is an extraordinary move, and we want to guarantee the MTA is making extraordinary accommodations to serve riders while the tunnels are under repair."

What to expect

There will be no R train between Brooklyn and Manhattan for approximately 14 months starting on Aug. 3 and trains will arrive further apart as well.

"We recognize that these closures will be an inconvenience for many of our customers, and we will do our best to provide them with alternatives. But there is no alternative to doing this work now."

The Montague Street tunnel, which connects Manhattan and Brooklyn via the R train under the East River, suffered severe damage during the storm.

The R train will run in two parts — from Bay Ridge to Court Street in Brooklyn, and Whitehall Street in Lower Manhattan to Forest Hills in Queens.

New York City Councilman Stephen Levin, whose Brooklyn district will be affected by the outages, is asking the MTA to coordinate with the East River Ferry to allow the usage of MetroCards at specific stops and to provide funding for Citi Bike stations in the affected areas.

Casualties mount in Philadelphia building collapse

Rescue. Crews worked overnight to free victims, said Fire Commissioner Lloyd Ayers.

A 35-year-old woman was confirmed killed and 13 people were injured in a building collapse in downtown Philadelphia yesterday.

Reports last night said at least two more bodies were recovered, but that information could not be confirmed by press time.

Rescue workers pulled people from mountains of crushed concrete and splintered wood, using search dogs to scour the rubble for others, fire officials said.

A four-story building under demolition collapsed onto a neighboring two-story Salvation Army Thrift Store at 2140 Market Street at 10:45 a.m., trapping people under debris, Fire Commissioner Lloyd Ayers said.

Those pulled from the rubble suffered minor injuries and were taken to area hospitals where they were in stable condition, he said.

One witness, Dan Gillis, 31, of Cinnaminson, N.J., a construction worker on a job across the street, said he saw a crane remove a supporting beam from the front of the building, and then the wall started swaying.

Another witness, Jeffrey Fehnel, 48, of Philadelphia, said about the same time a backhoe hit the rear side of the building.

"The building came down. It was like a big blast," Fehnel told Reuters.

Carlton Williams, commissioner of the Department of Licenses and Inspections for Philadelphia, said the site had all the permits needed for demolition. Officials said the cause was still under investigation. METRO, REUTERS the changes.

"After extensive engagement with the Aviation Security Advisory Committee, law enforcement officials, passenger advocates, and other important stakeholders, TSA will continue to enforce the current prohibited items list," Pistole said.

Public gets Free TV with no monthly bills

Federal law makes TV network giants broadcast Free TV signals regionally in crystal clear digital picture in all 50 states allowing U.S. households to pull in Free TV with a sleek $49 micro antenna device engineered to pull in nothing but Free TV channels with no cable, satellite or internet connection and no monthly bills

► Who Gets Free TV: Listed below are the NYC area zip codes that can get Free over the air TV channels. If you find the first two digits of your zip code immediately call: 1-888-752-7147

NEW YORK - Today's announcement by CompTek has the Free TV Hotlines ringing off the hook.

That's because NYC area residents who find their zip code listed in today's publication are getting Free TV channels thanks to an amazing razor-thin invention called Clear-Cast®.

NYC area residents who call the Toll Free Hotlines before the 48-hour order deadline to get Clear-Cast can pull in Free TV channels with crystal clear digital picture and no monthly bills.

This announcement is being so widely advertised because a U.S. Federal law makes TV broadcasters transmit their signals in digital format, which allows everyone to receive these over-the-air digital signals for free with no monthly bills.

Here's how it works. Clear-Cast, the sleek micro antenna device with advanced technology links up directly to pull in the Free TV signals being broadcast in your area with crystal clear digital picture and no monthly bills.

Clear-Cast was invented by a renowned NASA Space Technology Hall of Fame scientist who currently holds 23 U.S. Gov't issued patents. For the past 20 years, he has specialized in developing antenna systems for NASA, Motorola, XM Satellite Radio and companies around the world.

His latest patent-pending invention, Clear-Cast, is a sleek micro antenna device engineered to pull in the Free TV signals through advanced technology with no cable, satellite or internet connection and no monthly bills.

"Clear-Cast is being released to the general public because we just don't think people should keep paying for TV when they can get it for free," said Conrad Miller, Manager of Operations at CompTek.

"There's never a monthly bill to pay and all the channels you get with Clear-Cast are absolutely free. So you see, Clear-Cast is not like cable or satellite. It was engineered to access solely the over-the-air signals that include all the top rated national and regional networks, like ABC, NBC, CBS, FOX, PBS, CW and about 90% of the most watched TV shows like America's Got Talent, NCIS, 60 Minutes, American Idol, The Big Bang Theory, The Bachelorette, Person of Interest, CSI, The Mentalist, Two and a Half Men, Sunday Night Football plus news, weather and more all for free with no monthly bills," Miller said.

"That's why Clear-Cast is such a great alternative for everyone who is sick and tired of paying expensive cable and satellite bills every month," he said.

"People who get Clear-Cast will say it feels like getting an extra paycheck every month. You see, with Clear-Cast you'll receive free over-the-air broadcast channels with crystal clear digital picture, not the cable or satellite only channels. So being able to eliminate those channels puts all the money you were spending back in your pocket every month," Miller said.

And here's the best part. The sleek micro antenna device called Clear-Cast is so technically advanced it pulls in even more of the channels being broadcast in your area for Free with no monthly bills.

That way you can channel surf through the favorite TV shows. The number of shows and channels you'll get depends on where you live. People living in large metropolitan areas may get up to 53 static-free channels, while people in outlying areas will get less. That means even if you're in a rural area that just pulls in NBC, ABC, CBS, FOX and PBS broadcasts there's hundreds of shows each year to watch for free.

Consumers report that the crystal clear picture quality with Clear-Cast is the best they've ever seen. That's because you get virtually all pure uncompressed signals direct from the broadcasters for free.

Clear-Cast was engineered to link up directly like a huge outdoor directional antenna but in a lightweight, slim-line package. Its sturdy copper alloy and polymer construction will most likely far outlast your TV.

It just couldn't be any easier to get Free over-the-air digital TV shows with Clear-Cast. Simply plug it into your TV, place Clear-Cast on a window pane and run autotune. It works on virtually any model TV and is easily hidden out of sight behind a curtain or window treatment.

Thousands of NYC area residents are expected to call to get Clear-Cast because it just doesn't make any sense to keep paying for TV when you can get hundreds of shows absolutely free.

So, NYC area residents lucky enough to find their zip code listed in today's publication need to immediately call the Free TV Hotline before the 48-hour deadline to get Clear-Cast that pulls in Free TV with crystal clear digital picture. If lines are busy keep trying, all calls will be answered. ■

■ NEVER PAY A BILL AGAIN: New Yorkers will be on the lookout for their postal carrier because thousands of Clear-Casts will soon be delivered to lucky NYC area residents who beat the 48-hour order deadline and live in any of the zip code areas listed below. Everyone is getting Clear-Cast because it pulls in nothing but Free TV channels with no cable, satellite or internet connection and no monthly bills.

► How to get Free TV: Listed below are the NYC area zip codes that can get Free TV channels with no monthly bills. If you find the first two digits of your zip code immediately call 1-888-752-7147 beginning at precisely 8:30am this morning. Today's announcement photo above shows just a handful of the major over-the-air broadcast networks you can receive with Clear-Cast for free. It saves a ton of money by not picking up expensive cable only channels like ESPN so there's never a monthly bill. This is all possible because a U.S. Federal Law makes TV broadcasters transmit their signals in digital format, which allows everyone to use Clear-Cast to pull in Free TV channels with no monthly bills. CompTek is giving every U.S. household a 50% off discount to help cover the cost of Clear-Cast. Clear-Cast, the sleek micro antenna device is a one-time purchase that plugs in to your TV to pull in Free TV channels in crystal clear digital picture with no monthly bills. Each Clear-Cast normally costs $98, but U.S. households who beat the 48-hour deadline are authorized to get a 50% off discount for each Clear-Cast and cover just $49 and shipping as long as they call the Free TV Hotline at 1-888-752-7147 before the deadline ends or online at www.clear-cast.com. Witness: Soldier boasted about password hacks Secrecy. Bradley Manning is charged with providing more than 700,000 documents to WikiLeaks.

The U.S. soldier accused of passing classified files to the WikiLeaks website boasted of his ability to crack passwords, one of his Army supervisors said at a court-martial yesterday.

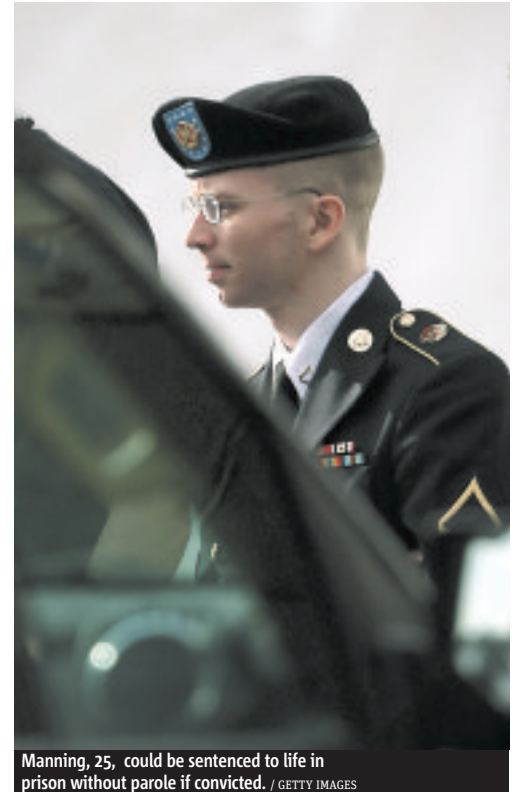

Manning, then an intelligence analyst, boasted of being able to bypass any Internet portal password, former Army Specialist Jihreah Showman testified under prosecution questioning.

"He said he felt very fluent with computers. He said he spoke their language," said Showman, who had been one of Manning's supervisors when he worked as an intelligence analyst at a U.S. Army base east of Baghdad in 2010. "He said there wasn't anything he couldn't do on a computer."

Showman said Manning had installed Microsoft's IRC, or Internet Relay Chat, on her computer even though only a civilian contractor was allowed to do so.

Under questioning by defense attorney David Coombs, another supervisor, Chief Warrant Officer 2 Kyle Balonek, testified that the application was widely used in Iraq for Army internal communications.

Balonek said the base's

Among the 21 charges Manning faces is adding unauthorized software to a computer that was part of the classified SIPR Network to download documents at a rate of 1,000 an hour and bypassing security mechanisms.

SIPR Network hard drive included material that had been downloaded from other computers for safety, as well as music, videos and games that soldiers would use during quiet periods.

WikiLeaks, an anti-secrecy website, began exposing U.S. government secrets in 2010, stunning diplomats and U.S. officials.

They accused Manning of endangering lives and damaging sensitive diplomacy. Manning has been in confinement since he was arrested in May 2010.

Genomics and particle physics — offering different perspectives on the fundamental nature of life and the cosmos — are the two hottest areas of scientific research.

Eight of the 21 most closely followed scientists in 2012 studied genes and their functions, while the single most-cited paper last year covered the hunt for the long-sought Higgs boson particle, according Rogue wheat release. The farmer claims the company is negligent, and that the incident puts U.S. wheat export sales at risk.

A U.S. wheat farmer has sued Monsanto Co., accusing the biotech seed giant of gross negligence for not containing an experimental, genetically modified wheat discovered in an Oregon field that has put U.S. wheat export sales at risk.

Farmer Ernest Barnes, who grows wheat in Morton County in the southwest corner of Kansas, filed suit this week in U.S. District Court in Wichita, Kan., alleging that he and other wheat farmers have been hurt financially by the discovery of the unapproved biotech wheat that Monsanto said it stopped testing and shelved nine years ago.

“Monsanto has released GE (genetically engineered) wheat into the non-genetically modified wheat population,” the petition states.

The “plaintiff has been harmed by any and all Monsanto GE wheat because it has impacted wheat exports and the price of wheat,” the petition also states. REUTERS

Confidante. Obama picks Rice as his new security adviser

President Barack Obama chose close confidante Susan Rice as his new national security adviser yesterday, increasing White House control over foreign policy and defying Republican criticism of her handling of last year's deadly attack on a U.S. compound in Libya.

The hard-charging Rice, selected to replace low-key Tom Donilon in the post, is expected to play a high-profile role in defending Obama's foreign policy, particularly on the civil war in Syria. Obama has come under fire for his cautious approach in response to mounting evidence that President Bashar al-Assad used chemical weapons against rebels seeking to oust him.

Obama will nominate Samantha Power — a Pulitzer Prize-winning author, former White House aide and Harvard

Controversy

The selection of Rice will likely anger Republicans who have sharply criticized her role in the handling of last September's attack on a U.S. compound in the Libyan city of Benghazi. The attack killed four Americans, including U.S. Ambassador Christopher Stevens.

professor — to replace Rice as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

Obama had been expected to pick Rice, 48, as national security adviser since she withdrew last December from consideration to replace Hillary Clinton as secretary of state amid criticism by Republicans about Benghazi. She had been Obama's first choice to replace Clinton. The job instead went to John Kerry. REUTERS

Senior Republican pushes tougher border plan for immigration bill

The second-ranking Senate Republican yesterday unveiled a proposal to significantly tighten security on the U.S.-Mexico border before giving undocumented workers legal status in the broad immigration bill being considered in the U.S. Senate. The proposal from Sen. John Cornyn of Texas, a skeptic of the bill that would grant legal status to some 11 million undocumented immigrants, would require the Department of Homeland Security to have surveillance over the entire U.S.-Mexico border and meet a benchmark of apprehending at least 90 percent of people trying to cross the border illegally. REUTERS / GETTY IMAGES

Nuclear reactor

US says Iran's nuke plans 'deeply troubling'

The United States said yesterday it was "deeply troubled" by Iran's plans to start a reactor in 2014 that could yield nuclear bomb material while failing to give U.N. inspectors necessary design information about the plant.

The comments by a U.S. envoy to a board meeting of the U.N.'s International Atomic Energy Agency highlighted deepening Western concern about the heavy water reactor that Iran is building.

Iran hit back, saying the IAEA had had continuous access to Arak, and that the U.S., which accuses Tehran of seeking nuclear weapons capability, could not be trusted after going to war in Iraq over reports of weapons of mass destruction that were never found. REUTERS

Kieron Monks eats the Soylent paste. / ANTHONY JOHNSTON, MWN

Trying the Soylent challenge

Post-food substance. One Metro worker puts a new supplement to the test.

The power of the paste courses through my veins as I drink. I can feel my vision sharpening, my mind racing and renewed physical strength. This glass of sand-colored sludge holds the power of transformation.

That's the theory behind Soylent, an innovation from U.S. biohacker Rob Rhinehart — the name comes from a 1970s science-fiction movie in which the title substance is made from humans. Rhinehart's Soylent is less sinister, combining every nutrient the human body needs each day, according to the Food & Drug Administration, in a single dose of super-charged paste.

The recipe is publicly available and has rapidly secured $500,000 in crowdfunding for mass production, so it's time for me to play guinea pig. I hunt the health food and fitness stores of central London for the pills, powders and grains that make up a daily intake, while shopkeepers eye me with suspicion.

Back at Metro, I blend precise measurements of each element together to the disgust of my colleagues.

The resulting paste barely escapes the glass, as it is so thick — and when it does I regret it, the taste a sickly clash of salty, sweet and alien. But suddenly the vitamins and Ginseng kick, and I can understand Rhinehart's plan a little better.

"I'm not sick of it," the creator promises. "This is about utility that you can live on. Most people don't need gourmet meals all the time, most of the time it's taking care of need."

The San Francisco-based entrepreneur, 25, put himself through a three-month trial subsisting only on Soylent, adjusting the recipe as he went. Not only did Rhinehart survive, he is "measurably healthier." He says: "I can run farther. I'm not stressed. My favorite part is cognition, I feel sharper and have more mental energy."

If a plastic  doesn't belong in your living room, neither does a plastic window.

Poor-quality vinyl is the same thing as plastic.

- Even through normal temperature changes, vinyl windows expand, contract, warp and leak.
- Only staples, screws and glues hold them together, so when their seals break, and their insulating gas is gone, so is your comfort.

The solution is our Fibrex® window:

- We're the replacement window division of Andersen, and they developed our Fibrex material to meet their superior standards.
- Fibrex is so strong it helps prevent glass movement, seal failure, and discomfort in your home.

June 12 opening in 'Whitey' Bulger murder trial in Boston

Charges. Bulger, 83, is accused of committing or ordering 19 murders while running a gang.

Opening statements in the murder trial of accused Boston gangster James "Whitey" Bulger would be heard on June 12, federal prosecutors said after a court hearing yesterday.

A second day of jury selection was underway in U.S. District Court in Boston, with hundreds of jurors asked to fill out questionnaires to find 12 jurors and six alternates. The first two days of jury selection were closed to the public.

The U.S. Attorney's Office in Boston said on its official Twitter feed that opening statements would be heard on June 12. The trial before U.S. District Judge Denise Casper is expected to draw crowds of spectators because of Bulger's notoriety.

Prosecutors have submitted hundreds of pages of evidence against him. Their main challenge, according to legal observers, will be to avoid technical errors that could lead to a mistrial.

Bulger was captured in California in June 2011, where he had lived anonymously in a seaside town. He had evaded authorities despite being listed on the FBI's Ten Most Wanted list for most of his 16 years in hiding. Martin Scorsese's Academy Award-winning film "The Departed" was loosely based on Bulger.

Sandy Hook. Conn. lawmakers vote to shield victim photos

The Connecticut General Assembly overwhelmingly approved compromise legislation to prevent public release of homicide victim photos, videos and some audiotapes in response to the Sandy Hook shooting.

After legislative maneuvering that pushed the vote into the pre-dawn hours, the state Senate voted 33-2 and the Connecticut House of Representatives voted 130-2 to pass the bill that establishes a new exemption under the state's Freedom of Information Act.

Governor Dannel Malloy was expected to sign the bill, which could be used to keep from public view some images and audiotapes concerning not only the Sandy Hook shootings, but other homicides as well. REUTERS

1 And so it begins: Paris Jackson's suicide attempt

Being 15 is hard. Being 15 when you don't have a father, your mother was pretty much bought solely for her uterus, your family legacy is complicated (to say the least) and you are extremely wealthy must be almost unbearable. So I feel for Paris Jackson. The 15-year-old daughter of Michael Jackson was hospitalized early Wednesday morning in what is being described as a "possible suicide attempt." Reports flew around the interview that she either suffered from a drug overdose or slit her wrists after being removed via stretcher from the Calabasas, Calif., family house which she shares with her grandmother and guardian Katherine Jackson.

Winslet is pregnant with baby Rocknroll

Kate Winslet, who is married to the ridiculously-named Ned Rocknroll, has confirmed she is pregnant with baby Rocknroll. "Kate and Ned are delighted" over the news, her rep told the Sun. "Kate and Ned have been talking about having babies since they met. Ned has always wanted kids and has been amazing with Kate's. They are very family people," a friend told the newspaper.

This is Winslet's third child (she has two previous children by her two previous husbands: Mia, 12, is the daughter of director Jim Threapleton, and Joe, 9, is the son of director Sam Mendes).

So many questions about this. When the fetus moves, does Winslet quip: "Boy, this baby certainly is rocking and rolling!" Should its first name be "Iwanna"? Really, people, I could go on all day.

10 Films out right now

1 'The Internship'

Remember eight years ago when Owen Wilson and Vince Vaughn were in that movie everyone liked? Now they're doing it again, only it's a comedy about Google that makes fun of tech dorks. It's almost the same thing, yes?

2 'The Purge'

Ethan Hawke stars in this horror film in which a society — a very foolish one — thinks it can put a damper on crime by making it legal one night a year. Whatever, that's not remotely as scary as "Before Midnight."

3 'Much Ado About Nothing'

Hot off "The Avengers," TV legend Joss Whedon turns to Shakespeare, adapting a play that was already memorably filmed in 1993. Do Whedon regulars Amy Acker and Alexis Denisof have the insane chemistry of then-marrieds Emma Thompson and Kenneth Branagh? (No.)

4 'You Ain't Seen Nothin' Yet'

French legend Alain Resnais ("Hiroshima, Mon Amour," "Last Year at Marienbad") claimed this playful look at theater would be his probable swan song, seeing as he's 91. But he's already making another film anyway. Good!

5 'Evocateur: The Morton Downey, Jr. Movie'

One of television's pioneering blowhards

finally gets his own documentary, allowing today's kids to learn about his comically short-lived show.

6 'Hey Bartender'

A trend's not a trend until it gets a fawning niche documentary. Cocktail culture comes under the microscope, with most of the running time devoted to New York's many snooty, packed watering holes.

7 'Dirty Wars'

Jeremy Scahill, investigative correspondent over at The Nation, takes his reporting from the page to the screen, with this documentary about America's covert wars that act without accountability and leave innocents

8 'Wish You Were Here'

Joel Edgerton, currently on screen as Tom in "The Great Gatsby," returns to his native Australia for this drama about four friends who go on a Southeast Asian holiday. Only three return, but no one seems to know what happened to the fourth.

9 'Violet & Daisy'

Saoirse Ronan and Alexis Bledel team up as young girls who play patty cake and talk cookies in between their day jobs: Gunning down marks as guns-for-hire. James Gandolfini plays a sadsack target who throws them off their game.

10 'After Earth'

Philadelphians

Will Smith and M. Night Shyamalan finally team up for yet another post-apocalyptic romp that is in no way similar to "Oblivion." Will Smith, who plays dad to real-life son Jaden, is a character named Cypher Raige. Seriously.

CRAIG ROBINSON

One of the stars of "Rapture-Palooza" talks about the limits of improvising.

HE'S THE ANTICHRIST (ON FILM)

Craig Robinson is getting plenty of screen time these days after co-starring in "Peeples" last month and teaming up with pals Seth Rogen, James Franco and Jonah Hill for the end-of-the-world comedy "This is the End" next week. And speaking of end times, Robinson leads a cast of improv comedy all-stars as the Antichrist in "Rapture-Palooza." Here's what he remembers most fondly from the 18-day shoot.

All improvisation all the time: "I know that there's another level to it, that when comedians or actors get together, I can just sit and observe. The silliness can go wherever," Robinson says of "Rapture-Palooza," which was almost all off the cuff. "There's no self-editing. That's what your director's for. You go as far as you're going to go, and it's up to him or her to stop it."

On a bigger role in a film: "It's a lot of fun," Robinson admits. "I've been blessed to watch and learn and steal from Steve Carell, Bernie Mac, Larry David. One of the things I

Another view

The one they couldn't get

"Daniel Day-Lewis," Robinson says with mock-seriousness. "Well, he was coming, but they wouldn't let him into Canada because he had a DUI [laughs]. It was a 'If you write it, they will come' sort of scenario. We just kept putting it out there and people kept coming."

knew going in was that if you're the star of a movie, the bigger your trailer is the less time you get to spend in it. I didn't allow pressure to be put on myself. I just wanted to go out and have fun. We had such great people in this. It wasn't anything to worry about. It was like, I know the comedy is there, so let me just go and be myself and do what I would do on a Saturday night at midnight at a comedy club."

Randy Fenoli is making over brides on "Randy to the Rescue," airing Fridays at 9 p.m. on TLC.

WALLING MCGARITY

The wedding dress whisperer

TV. Randy Fenoli is on a mission to make every girl's dream day a reality.

Randy Fenoli of "Say Yes to the Dress" and "Randy to the Rescue" (which just began its second season) estimates that he's helped about 1 million brides get ready for their big day. But being a bride's advocate never wears on the marriage maestro: "I never get tired of it," he tells us. His dedication means that since not everyone can make it to NYC's Kleinfeld, where Fenoli consults, he takes his show on the road — literally. On "Randy to the Rescue," Fenoli travels around the U.S., creating pop-up bridal salons for the betrothed and then giving them makeovers.

Legions of brides turn to Fenoli for his advice, and after speaking with him, we've come up with some reasons as to why we think that is:

He'll fight for his bride: "I absolutely will not compromise. We were in one city working with a bridal salon and this girl came in. She showed me a picture of this dress that she had tried on, like, six states away, and she fell in love with the dress, but she was like, 'Well, I can't get this today.' You could tell this girl was in love with this dress. And the cameras are on her and the family's there, and finally she said yes to a dress. But when I walked off the set, I was like, 'I'm sorry, that is not her dress. She is not happy.' So I woke up the next morning and called every single bridal salon in, like, a three-hour radius and found the dress."

He doesn't believe in bridezillas: "Brides want everything to be perfect, and it should be! ... I would want it to be perfect, too. You're spending how much money? You've waited how many years? You've invited how many people, we're taking how many pictures, and how many people are watching? It should be right."

He goes beyond the dress: "Brides come in and show their consultant a photograph. Most consultants take it literally and are like, 'OK, that's the dress you want.' I don't just look at the dress. I look at the girl in the dress and I look at the feeling [the picture evokes]."

3 shopping tips

- Know your budget. "You've got to have a wedding budget. If you've allotted $1,000 for the dress and $1,000 for the flowers and you find a dress that's $1,200, you're like OK, what do I do? Maybe you take $200 from your flowers and put it on your dress."
- Go to a reputable salon. "You're gonna be working with this person to get your dress and to deliver it and alter it and take care of it. You want to be able to have that peace of mind."
- Consider your options. "Go in with a wedding date and a venue. Know what look you're going for ... but also keep an open mind. So many times, brides come in and say, 'I don't want strapless, I don't want lace and I don't want beaded,' and they buy a beaded, lace, strapless dress. I see it every day."

Advice

On the big day

"Hold the flowers down and low. Don't run down the aisle — just pause for a moment and take it all in. I hear brides say after the wedding, 'It all went so fast, I don't even remember it.' Be in the moment."

Creepy, desperate stranger isn't a good look. Whether you are interested in meeting friends or flirting your way to a good relationship, it can be difficult to forge connections with interesting people. Think of it this way: If an unknown person came to your front door and started a conversation with you, you'd wonder, "What do they want? Why are they talking to me?" It's the same when picking up a stranger. Barging in with little purpose — other than getting into their underwear — can feel awkward or make you look like a jerk. You can do better than that. The propagation of the human race depends on it. Here's how to rope someone into a conversation, friendship or your bed.

DON'T do it by yourself.

Don't be a creeper — make sure you approach a new person with an interesting, unique reason. / GETTY IMAGES

Invite the hot stranger and their partner (or friends!) to join you and your partner (or friends!) for drinks, a comedy show or dinner. Triads and quads keep things light and provide a higher number of possible conversation combinations and permutations. It's the platonic version of threesomes and swinging.

Advice

Do your research

You may already have potential targets among friends of friends. Ask around. Chances are that those you love and respect are in touch with like-minded souls. Tell everyone you want to meet someone new and suggest they recommend others who might be good matches for you. Have the friend introduce you or contact them yourself.

At the same time, DON'T be afraid to be alone. It's okay to fly solo at public lectures, gyms, art gallery openings, author readings at your favorite bookstore and city-sponsored cultural events. Going alone means you'll grow more comfortable with independence — a necessity for all healthy interpersonal relationships. You'll also meet other singles with shared interests.

DO put your typing fingers to work to get creative about breaking the ice. Dating sites aren't only the tip of the iceberg, they're also melting. Seriously, who doesn't have an Internet dating horror story?! Try MeetUp.com or DiscoverOutdoors.com. Google local film societies and social sports clubs. Make the earth below you your common ground:

the hiking trip, movie or soccer game provides great conversation fodder. Remember: It's easiest to connect when you have a connector. For example, instead of rushing out when credits roll, casually mention to the person seated near you, "God, wasn't the end of that film awful?! I love this director's work, and she's usually much better with closing films."

3 High-tech golf gifts for dad

Dads love golf and they're suckers for gizmos. Combine them both and give him one of these high-tech golf gifts this year.

SwingSmart

One of the coolest tech products at this year's PGA Show, SwingSmart is a unique game improvement tool that provides instant and accurate feedback on the critical elements of dad's swing. The Bluetooth-enabled module captures information, such as tempo, swing speed and shaft lean. The highlight is the virtual 3-D Swing-View — very eye-opening. $249.99, www.swingsmart.com

OptiShot

There are indoor simulators that cost tens of thousands of dollars to buy and install, but the OptiShot is an affordable way to play golf indoors 12 months a year. Using real clubs, a real or foam ball (or no ball at all), dad can spend rainy days or the endless winter months keeping his swing honed. With replica courses, OptiShot isn't just a practice tool, it's a real game. OptiShot Infrared Golf Simulator, $399.95, www.optishotgolf.com

GolfLogix

GolfLogix is a smartphone app that uses GPS to provide distances and course layouts for more than 32,000 tracks worldwide. The app itself is free, but give dad an upgrade and he'll be able to track every shot to learn club distances and shot trends. Instead of having one more gadget (a stand-alone GPS unit or a laser rangefinder), GolfLogix works right on dad's phone. GolfLogix, $20, www.golflogix.com. METRO

'Hey Bartender' — what should we order?

Drinks. A new film chronicles the world's best mixologists. We had them tell us what to order when we visit them.

Many bar fights could be started over the best bartender this city has to offer, but the ones profiled in "Hey Bartender" are the creme de la creme de menthe. This new film is a behind-the-scenes look at what it takes to be a cocktail connoisseur, with commentary from those who would know, like nightlife impresario Amy Sacco. We asked six of the film's stars to tell us about the drinks that they recommend for you.

— "Hey Bartender" opens Friday at Village East Cinema (181-189 Second Ave., 212-529-6799) and is available OnDemand.

Dale DeGroff (aka King Cocktail), master mixologist and founder and president of The Museum of the American Cocktail

1.5 oz. Hendrick's Gin
1.5 oz. Lillet Rouge
0.5 oz. Fresh lemon/lime Juice
0.25 oz. Simple Syrup (1 to 1 ratio)
2 dashes Dale DeGroff's Pimento Bitters

Place all ingredients in a cocktail shaker with ice and shake well. Strain into a chilled cocktail glass. Garnish with an edible flower. PROVIDED

Ready Fire Aim

"I love this drink because despite its many levels of flavor, it is enjoyed by a wide variety of drinkers. The sweet, spicy, smokey combination can cool in the summer and warm in the winter. It's a winner either way you look at it."

Steve Schneider, bartender at Employees Only

1.75 oz. Montelobos Mezcal Joven
1 oz. honey syrup (2 parts honey : 1 part water)

La Mikana

"La Mikana is one of my favorite late spring-early summer cocktails due to the delicate balance of fresh ingredients and the interplay of champagne and Hendrick's Gin."

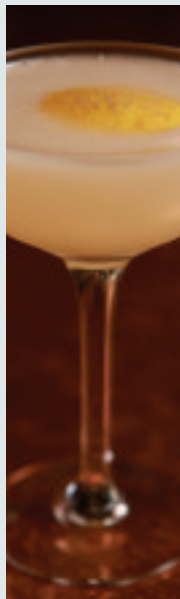

Dushan Zaric, owner of Employees Only

1 oz. Hendrick's Gin
.75 oz. EO Grapefruit cordial (recipe below)
3 oz. Brut Champagne
1 fresh sprig of rosemary, for garnish
Pour all ingredients except Champagne into a mixing glass. Add large cold ice and shake vigorously. Pour champagne into a champagne flute. Strain the cocktail over it and garnish with rosemary.

EO Grapefruit Cordial
Makes half a quart

12 oz. superfine sugar
8 oz. fresh ruby red grapefruit juice
3 oz. fresh lime juice
30 crushed white peppercorns
10 grinds of star anise **
45 dashes of Bitter Truth Grapefruit Bitters
Zest of one grapefruit
1 star anise pod
 a "grind" is one pass with the spice over a micro-plane grater.

Putting Estonia on the map

Hot chef. Andrey Korobyak brings his cuisine to Courgette.

When you think of Estonia, you might think of... well, not much. Indeed, the country isn't as well known on the map as its neighbor to the north, Finland, but it has given the world Skype (its inventors are natives) and now, Andrey Korobyak. Korobyak is the executive chef at Courgette, a Midtown establishment where classical, Northern-European techniques cross with farm-to-table New American dining. Korobyak, who represented Estonia in the 2009 Bocuse d'Or (kind of like the Olympics of cooking), spoke with us about his career.

You do a lot of salting, curing, smoking and pickling at Courgette. What are your favorite foods to preserve?

I do more preserving when the season is right. I did a lot of this in my other restaurants, but in New York I will start this summer. Usually, I work with ingredients like mushrooms, berries, herbs, wood sorrel and ramps. I'll dry, salt or pickle these to make things like chutneys or confitures (a type of jam or preserve).

How did you prepare yourself — mentally and physically — for the Bocuse d'Or?

The Bocuse d'Or is one of the most exciting challenges a chef can undertake — for those who like to compete, of course. I was very happy — and lucky — to represent Estonia as a commis chef alongside head chef Vladislav Djatsuk. We prepared by training every day, creating the same dishes over and over again until we achieved perfection. Making dishes fast was very important, so we worked hard to minimize the time it took to prepare every part of the menu and simultaneously improve the food itself. Mentally, it was also hard. The pressure was high because the whole country was watching us as if we were going to Olympic Games.

You're only 27 and you've already had massive success — training at Michelin-starred restaurants, competing in the Bocuse d'Or, taking over as an executive chef. Where will you go from here?

I try to do my best and never stop working to improve my dishes. Working seven days a week — in the restaurant and thinking about new dishes — is hard. It takes a lot of time from my private life, but I have enjoyed the good feedback we're getting at Courgette. That makes me happy.

What's the best meal you've ever eaten?

It's very hard to say. The best meals I've had are all good in different ways. If I were to pick one, it would be the tasting menu from Restaurant Geranium in Copenhagen, Denmark, created by Chef Rasmus Kofoed. One of the tasting dishes was made with fresh new potatoes from a farm, boiled with lovage and glazed with butter and shallots. Chef Kofoed served them with pickled spring and pearl onions, onion dust, melted Danish cheese, a potato-leek foam and crunchy chips.

Orange wine making a splash

Drinks. Red and white aren't the only colors you have to choose from.

We love a crisp rosé just as much as the next person, but this summer, we're noticing orange wines in bloom at restaurants across the city.

Orange wine is essentially the opposite of a rosé. A rosé is a light red wine; orange wine is actually a dark white wine. Orange wine is a category of dark whites — the color isn't Nickelodeon orange, per se, but rather something more golden or brownish in color.

"What winemakers would do is say 'OK, let's treat our whites like reds,'" says Laura Maniec, the

There are two by-the-bottle options, a 2006 Vitovska Amphora Vodopivec Friuli Italy ($140), and a 2003 Ribolla Gialla Amphora Gravner Venezia Giulia ($195). Says Hiromi Kiyama, the sommelier at 15 East: "The Vodopivec wine is somewhat ethereal: Hazy-rose-colored, smoky and honeyed and full of minerals. The Gravner is a white wine that drinks like a red: Weighty, tannic and dry. We have them on our list because they are delicious with food and because they are adventurous."

master sommelier and co-founder of Corkbuzz Wine Studio. "What historically we do is separate juice from skins in white wine. Now let's ferment our juice with white skins and see if it does anything." It does do something, after all — create the orange-y vino that's got a flavor a bit different from your usual pinot blanc.

"Expect something more oxidative in nature," she says.

One way to figure out if you'll like it: Are you more the type who likes a freshly cut apple, or an apple that's been sitting out for a bit and is a little less tangy? If you prefer the latter, orange wine may be your new go-to.

"It will be a departure from that fresh and zippy style," Maniec adds. "You get texture like a red, but it's refreshing like a white."

The one thing you might not like about orange wine? The sticker price. Indeed,

Horoscope

♊ Gemini | May 22-June 20. You're in an exceptionally good achievement cycle, but your victories could come about in a surprising way. It'll be a last-minute change that does the trick.

♋ Cancer | June 21-July 22. A friend might lean on you in hopes that your capability will rub off. Do your best to help this person.

♌ Leo | July 23-Aug. 22. An opportunity to make more money from a work-related matter is yours for the taking. You may need to modify it somewhat.

♍ Virgo | Aug. 23-Sept. 22. Profit from past experience and don't fall into a trap that has snared you before. Old mistakes don't have to be repeated.

♎ Libra | Sept. 23-Oct. 22. You are likely to fare better in a joint endeavor than a solo effort. Pick your ally wisely, and you'll do quite well.

♏ Scorpio | Oct. 23-Nov. 21. Because you're as much of a giver as you are a taker, you'll be in high demand. Your good attitude will be a boon to your team.

♐ Sagittarius | Nov. 22-Dec. 21. To feel gratified, you'll need to engage in an activity that produces real benefits for you and others. Start the ball rolling quickly.

♑ Capricorn | Dec. 22-Jan. 20. You'll instinctively know how to arouse interest in your wares, making you a good salesperson. Be careful when it comes to actually handling money.

♒ Aquarius | Jan. 21-Feb. 18. One of your greatest assets is a desire to do things for others that they can't do themselves.

♓ Pisces | Feb. 19-March 20. Mental tasks will be much easier than work requiring physical effort. If there is heavy lifting, hire helpers.

♈ Aries | March 21-April 20. You'll have some very good chances to add to your material resources if you assert yourself. Don't be afraid to make extra funds.

♉ Taurus | April 21-May 21. If you're permitted to use your own ideas at work, you'll stand a much greater chance of success. Do what you can on your own.

Newspaper is no place for sex

Re: Don't like it, don't read it (Metro, June 5) Charles Rose's letter verbally chastised a previous letter writer who said Metro's sex issue was "immoral," but Mr. Rose was as vague. Just what is the "right" way to embrace creation and sex? Is your one-size-fits-all idea some kind of absolute? I think Metro should keep out of the sex biz because there is too much of it already. We are force-fed this stuff. The heading should read, "If you like it, look for it in red-light districts — not in every newspaper."

Yankees mum on possible Rodriguez PED suspension

MLB. One day after learning of their teammate's possible suspension there were still few answers provided.

Few Yankees had any comment on the possible suspension of Alex Rodriguez following yesterday's win over Cleveland.

"I can't pinpoint something like that because I don't know what happened," Mariano Rivera said. "Besides that, I can't tell you anything that I don't know."

The news of MLB seeking to suspend Rodriguez, Ryan Braun and others in connection to the Biogen-

Complete victory

On the field yesterday, the Yankees picked up a sweep of the Indians with a 6-4 win.

- CC Sabathia allowed four runs and seven hits as he struck out nine, while pitching his 36th career complete game and 10th as a Yankee.
- Sabathia retired the first 14 batters in order before allowing a single to Mike Aviles.
- "It was too early," Sabathia said of the no-no. "I was still trying to get a feel for the game and trying to make pitches."

esis scandal broke Tuesday, but little changed from the no comments provided after that day's win.

"I think the game is always bigger than one individual, 10 individuals or a hundred individuals — a thousand individuals," manager Joe Girardi said. "This is a game and I love this game and I want what's best for this game and I think baseball's trying to do that as well."

MLBPA President Michael Weiner said yesterday morning the union was interviewing players involved in the matter and no suspensions would be meted out until after those were concluded.

Replacing Kidd

Knicks work out point guards

The Knicks are in the market for a backup point guard now that Jason Kidd rode off into the sunset and Pablo Prigioni is still weighing his options, so it made sense to host a couple of lead guards at yesterday's pre-draft workouts.

Among the six invitees

Canaan averaged 21.8 points per game last year. / GETTY IMAGES to the team's first pre-draft workout were Isaiah Canaan of Murray State and Brandon Triche of Syracuse.

Neither lacked in confidence discussing if they'd be the right candidate for the Knicks at the No. 24 pick.

"I'm very confident," said Canaan. "Once people really see me, because they probably didn't see me play where I'm located at and the team I played for, I can change a lot of people's minds. At the end of the day, they'll realize that I am a first-round type of player."

Triche, who averaged 13.6 points last season for Syracuse, said he felt as if he really impressed head coach Mike Woodson and his staff with his improved shooting.

"I think this was my best workout so far. I was able to shoot the 3-point shot the best out of the four places I've been," said Triche. "I have a lot of experience but [there's] still things to prove, mostly to myself. ... I want to show my true abilities [because] I think I'll be a better pro than college player." TONY WILLIAMS

Kenrick Ellis faces a make-or-break season in his third year in the league. / GETTY IMAGES

Ellis focused a year removed from jail time

NFL. The Jets defensive lineman has his mind in the right place this offseason.

This time a year ago, Kenrick Ellis was getting ready for the biggest challenge of his life. It wasn't going against a veteran offensive lineman or even a grueling training camp session.

Instead, Ellis was headed to Virginia to serve a 45-day prison sentence for a felony charge stemming from an incident in college.

"Just the fact that you have to go in a box for 40 days, that [was] always in the back of my head last offseason. It's always there, even if you're on the field," Ellis said. "I don't wish it on anyone and I don't want to be in it again. Just knowing the fact that I will be sitting in a box with killers and society's outcasts, yeah, you're always thinking about that. I'm glad it is over. I am glad to focus on other things."

Now, Ellis is playing free and clear.

In OTAs, he has shown good mobility and lateral movement, the result of an offseason where he focused on refining his footwork. It looks as if Ellis is primed to take a step forward in his development.

"I can just relax and play, [and] mentally focus on my assignment," Ellis said. "I can focus on what I need to do."

Jets wideouts banged up

The Jets were without receivers Stephen Hill (knee) and Jeremy Kerley (heel) yesterday. Head coach Rex Ryan held out Kerley as a precaution and he anticipates having Hill back next week.

Also missing was Santonio Holmes, who Ryan said could start training camp on the physically unable to perform list.

NFL. Jets still waiting to name starter at QB

A decision on the Jets' starting quarterback isn't forthcoming anytime soon, per head coach Rex Ryan. Neither Mark Sanchez nor Geno Smith has distanced themselves enough.

"I don't believe that's the case. I don't believe we're close to that right now," Ryan said. "Until we feel 100-percent comfortable with that decision, we'll leave it to competition." KRISTIAN DYER
